Yesterday my wife, son and I had the opportunity to take a ferry from Maui to Lanai. I couldn't find a lot of information online and I had so many questions about travel. I have cobbled together answers and thought i might find it helpful too if you go! BTW: The only way to travel between Maui and Lanai is by ferry or plane. Commercial flights are made through Honolulu so it will take much longer. There is only one ferry company that does the shuttle service between Maui and Lanai: Lanai Ferry Expeditions. It's only for passengers (there are no car ferries). Reservations can be made in advance online or by calling 808-661-3756. Even though they say to use the confirmation number, they just asked us for a name in the dock, and I didn't have to show the ID. The ticket booth was not open until about 45 minutes before departure and they start getting on the ferry 30 minutes in advance. Ferries depart from Front Street in downtown Lahaina. The address is 658 Front St #127, Lahaina, HI 96761. It is directly across the street from pioneer inn.The Maui-to-Lanai ferry timetable is below:Lahaina to Manele: Departs at 6:45, 9:15, 12:45 15:15, 17:45Manele to Lahaina: Departs 8:00, 10:30, 14:00, 16:30, 18:45 Prices are $30 each way for adults and $20 for children 2-11. Children under 2 years old drive for free. Several dock blocks house many shops, including Lappert's Coffee & Ice Cream, which also sells shaving ice and the popular pineapple Dole Whip (small is $4.50). The Maui-Lanai ferry takes 45 to 50 minutes to dock. I asked if the waters would be rough, and the agent told me that the ocean is calm, but it can be rough in the canal, which is about a 20-minute drive away. It was a bit rough. The ferry uses a hydrofoil boat, which goes 20 knots. It is both indoor and outdoor seating (the inner part is air-conditioned). The most popular seats are on top in the first few rows, where there is a little shade. There are not too many places there, so if you want them, it is better to be first in line. According to the ticket agent, the most stable seats are inside and furthest back. You can go in and out or up and down while traveling, but not during departure and arrival. There are racks for bags, but not porters. We had two big bags and a couple of little ones. Of course, we put our valuables in smaller bags and kept them with us all the time. My T-Mobile mobile service worked all the time, which surprised me. Keep your eyes peeled for whales and dolphins. I saw one breach on the back of the deck and snapped the above picture. The boat does not stop at whales and does not make any announcements. There is a bathroom on the ground floor. They do not sell food, but sell water and carbonated drinks for 2 dollars (only in cash). Overall, it was a great experience and although one of the deckhands wasn't friendly, the other two were. The carrier will also attempt to notify passengers and crew of their inability to board at the port of origin. Where the ship's inability to sea is due to reasons other than weather or sea conditions, the Carrier may provide, in its sole discretion, a replacement ship certified by the United States Guard for all or part of your sailing schedule as it deems appropriate. Competent, the voyage is in progress and the Carrier, through the master of the ship, finds that it is not advisable to complete the voyage to the port of destination, the ship may return to the port of origin or may land in another port on the island of destination. If the ship returns to the port of origin, the passenger and the sender may choose to travel on a later flight between the same ports on the basis of the available location on that day, or may choose to cancel the reservation and receive a refund from the Carrier, which will be sent to the Passenger or Sender to the corresponding address, which will be given to the Passenger or Sender within thirty (30) days from the date of the election. If the ship lands in another port on the island of destination, the Carrier shall arrange for the land transport of passengers, forwarders and parcels from the alternative port to the port of destination. 7 Posts Of Expeditions Ferry Booking? 13 years ago I was trying to book expedition ferry tickets to Lanai, and the link to online booking doesn't work, does anyone else have this problem? Is there even a need to book in advance, or can you usually show up and get two tickets? I'll be there over the Christmas period, so I imagine it will be busier - Thanks. Dear Spurs 13 years ago: I called 800 on their website and made a reservation yesterday for January b/c online not working. I read that it is best to have reservations. I booked two tickets, but you don't have to pay for them until you show up. 7 posts 2. Re: Expeditions Ferry Booking? 13 years ago Hi Spurs, We took a ferry to Maui last Sunday (11/11). We have not made a reservation. When we stood in line, one of the residents told us that it was usually good to walk and buy a ticket. But he said that you definitely need to make a reservation in advance during the holidays. He said he gets really busy with locals going to Maui for christmas and Christmas shopping. Also, just a tip ... if you're quey at all, sit inside (bottom deck) toward the middle or back. They have A/C running inside and selling carbonated drinks & water. Otherwise, you can sit outside (upper deck) and enjoy the sun and have great views of other islands and maybe some dolphins or whales! Enjoy your holiday! =^.. ^= Level Contributor 18 posts 29 reviews 70 helpful votes 4. Re: Expeditions Ferry Booking? 13 years ago I took a ferry from Lahaina to Lanai and back in August. (I'm a frequent visitor to Lanai, but this was the first time to go over the ferry.) I have booked bookings/tickets through the website. I remember there was some but I do not remember what it was exactly. You may have ended up calling. Knowing how things work rather not working) in Hawaii, I also stayed at the office in Lahaina a few days ahead of time to confirm my booking. No wonder they didn't have any record of my booking. Well, I checked. Then, when I showed up in the dock to pay for the ticket, their employee almost charged me the full price, not the kamaaina (local) price. She was nice enough to correct her, but if I didn't pay attention, I would be overloaded. The ferry seemed pretty full on the way to Lanai - many construction workers go for the day - so you might want to make a reservation in advance, although I'm guessing that most times you can show up and get a seat without reservation. The best place to sit is a mountain in the outer chairs, but these fill up quickly, so get there early if you want one of them. Also take sunscreen, a hat and sunglasses if it's a sunny day. By ferry to Lanai is an excellent day trip from Lahaina - there are many good places for lunch in the city (Lanai City) or in the resorts. Level Contributor 310 posts 3 reviews 25 helpful votes 5. Re: Expeditions Ferry Booking? 13 years ago No problem - we are waiting for a report after returning. We go to Lanai for the first time at the end of January. Let us know what it was like. 6.
